STUCKEY-HUTCHESON NUPTIALS.

Wednesday night at the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, occurred the marriage of Miss Daisy Lee Hutcheson, the charming daughter of former Senator F. M. Hutcheson, to Dr. Henry Mortimer Stuckey, of Sumter, South Carolina.

The church was prettily decorated in palms and river plants with strings of simlax twining the chandeliers and bunches of white lilies and carnation on the altar.

A little before the appointed hour Miss Josie Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Atkinson on the organ, sang Reginald De Kovens' beautiful song, "I Promise Thee." It was effectively rendered, the cadenced words striking chords of sympathy in the hearts of the hearers.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the Lohengrin wedding march heralded the arrival of the bridal party. The ushers, Messrs. G. A. Lemmon, J. H. Burns, of Sumter, and F. M. Hutcheson, Jr., and S. A. Banks, came down opposite aisles and formed a semi-circle around the chancel; the maid of honor, Miss Ethel Hutcheson, sister of the bride, gowned in white organdie over pink, and carrying pink bride's maids roses, led the way down the aisle, followed by the bride on the arm of her father. They were met at the altar by Dr. Stuckey, and his brother, Mr. George Stuckey, who was his best man. The bride wore a white gown of mousseline de soie, over white tulle silk, trimmed elaborately with exquisite point lace. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and maiden-hair ferns. The ring ceremony was performed by Rev. F. M. Thomas, and while the words were being said that bound these two lives together the soft strains of "The Angels' Serenade" added to the beauty of the words, lending a sweet solemnity to the occasion. After the service was said they marched out while Mendelssohn wedding march so full of memories of the past for some and of prophecies of the future of others, was being played. They were then driven to the home of the bride, on Terrace Hill, where a reception was given to a few of the bride's intimate friends and relatives.—Henderson, Ky., Daily Gleaner, May 4.

Death of Mr. Anthony White.

The people of this city generally feel the serious loss sustained in the death of Mr. Anthony White which occurred last night at his residence on North Main Street.

He has been very ill for some days, but hopes had been entertained of his recovery. So that his death comes to many as a surprise. But death nearly always comes that way; no matter how serious the illness or how slight the chance of recovery.

Mr. White was born December 3rd, 1827 in Sumter District, where he has spent the many years of his useful life. He married Miss Elizabeth Dick, daughter of the late Dr. T. M. Dick. Prior to the civil war he was engaged in mercantile lines in Sumter, and was the head of a very successful business.

In 1886 he established an Insurance Agency, which grew and prospered until he retired last year from active business pursuits. He enjoyed the perfect confidence of his friends and patrons, and his kind, generous dealings held them to him with firmest ties.

For two years 1880-1881, Mr. White represented Sumter County in the Legislature, where his wise counsels and sound judgment gave him large influence. He was well fitted by natural endowment and education for higher positions of honor and trust, but his modest, retiring nature would never have permitted him to enter into any contest or scramble for position.

He was patriotic and loved his mother State with great devotion. Whatever public service he rendered was with high and honorable purpose, without thought of self or personal advancement.

For about twenty years he has been a member of the Board of Regents of the South Carolina Asylum for the Insane. His interest in this institution was unbounded. During all the years of his connection with its management, he was never absent more than two or three times from meetings of his board.

For many years he has been an earnest, faithful member of the Presbyterian Church. As in all other relationships, he here brought his powers for the furtherance of all that was good and true; and nowhere else, save in his own home, will he be more greatly missed, more sincerely mourned than by his church. Liberally of his means did he support the institutions, and wisely of his clear head and kind heart did he guide in her councils.

He was elected elder in 1876 and held the office until death. He often represented the church courts, and was several times a delegate to the General Assembly.

As already intimated Mr. White was of a modest disposition and retiring nature. But these characteristics could not hide the great intellect and sterling worth of the man. His friends knew him, trusted him implicitly, and were never disappointed in their expectations of him. His four surviving children, Mr. Anthony White, Jr., of New York, Dr. Leonard White, of Statesville, N. C., Misses Mary and Adelaide White, of this city, have the sincerest sympathy of many relatives and a large circle of friends who, likewise, mourn his death.

The funeral services will be held in the Presbyterian Church at 10 o'clock a. m., tomorrow.

DEATH.

Mr. Soule Mellett died today at his home in Wedgefield, after two weeks sickness. He was about forty three years old. A widow and seven children are left to mourn his loss. Funeral at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Cain burying ground, near residence, Mr. W. O. Cain.

The many friends of Maj. J. L. Coker, of Hartsville, will be grieved to learn that he was taken suddenly and seriously ill Friday last with appendicitis. He was taken immediately in a private car to Richmond, Va., for treatment.—Baptist Courier.

Mr. C. M. Aman passed the examination and was admitted to practice as an attorney, in the Supreme Court on the 7th. Eleven other applicants also passed and were sworn in as attorneys.

Death of Rev. J. Thomas Pate, D. D.

Rev. J. Thomas Pate died in the city of Florence, S. C., on last Thursday morning at 5 o'clock. Since last December, his friends knew he could not live. That he resisted the enemy, death, until today attested his vitality and strong will power.

Dr. Pate was born in the city of Sumter, S. C., June 27, 1856. Cradled in a Christian home, his entire life has been lived in Christ. He was educated at Wofford College. As a student in college, he was known ever to stand for that which was pure and righteous. Being licensed to preach, in the Methodist Church, he joined the South Carolina Conference in 1877. That he was a successful pastor and preacher his appointments fully attest. Careful always in the preparation of his sermons, sympathetic and kind in his association with men, and zealous for the advancement of his Master's work, Dr. Pate was a popular preacher. Having a body racked with pain and frail withal, the amount of work he did during his life was miraculous.

Our town was justly proud to give to the State such a man as Dr. Pate. The community mourns the loss of one of its best sons, and enters into sorrow and sympathy with the bereaved wife and each member of his family.

The funeral was held in Florence at 10:30 Friday morning, and the interment was also there.

The Funeral of Dr. Furman.

The funeral of Dr. John H. Furman which was held Thursday at Bethel Church, Privateer, of which he had been a member for nearly fifty years, was attended by hundreds of his friends and neighbors, by whom his death is felt as a personal loss. The community in which Dr. Furman lived and practiced his profession for so many years owes much to his influence and example, and his neighbors in speaking of their departed friend Thursday testified in the sincerest and most feeling manner of their appreciation of his great ability as a physician and his broad charity as a man and citizen.

At the conclusion of the services conducted by Rev. Louis J. Bristow, at the request of one of the congregation the casket was opened, and those present gathered around for a last look at the face of him whom they mourned. There were a great many negroes present and none showed more grief than they for they realized that they had lost a true and kind friend, a friend who had been uniformly kind to them.

Mr. Fred S. Averill, son of Col. J. H. Averill of Charleston, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. He was stricken with appendicitis last Thursday night. The doctors operated as soon as they were satisfied of the nature of his trouble, but it was even then too late, for blood poison had set in before the operation.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

An Eloquent Address Delivered by Mr. D. C. Heyward.

The Memorial exercises at the Cemetery Friday afternoon were attended by a very large crowd. If a comparison be made the opinion would be hazarded that there were present quite a number more than have been seen upon the attendance on Memorial Day exercises save to implant more deeply in the hearts of the people of the South the custom of assembling once a year beside the graves of the Confederate dead for the purpose of paying a tribute to their memory. To the majority of those who now participate in these exercises the war for southern independence is not a part of their personal experience, for the ranks of the veterans who obere the heat and burden of the sanguinary conflict grow thinner each year, but a matter of history and tradition, nevertheless all who gather together to decorate the graves of those who fell on the firing line, are actuated by the same motives and are one in sentiment. They all, old and young, honor and revere the memory of the gallant dead who have slept in the silent bivouac of the dead for more than thirty-seven years, and their hearts swell with pride at the thought that their grand fathers or fathers, or uncles or brothers were soldiers and patriots who gave their lives and fortunes for the defence of country. Time has assuaged the bitter and hopeless grief and the heavy sorrow that filled all hearts when the soldiers' graves were new, and the pride that the South now takes in the imperishable fame won by the men who wore the grey is only tempered by sadness that the price paid for glory was so great.

The order of exercises was as follows:

Prayer by Rev. W. A. Fairley.
Music by Band.
While band plays, the children place flowers on graves.

Introduction of orator by the presiding officer, Mr. Altamont Moses.
Oration by Mr. D. C. Heyward.
Music by band.

Salute over graves by military.
The address by Mr. Heyward held the undivided attention of the large assemblage from first to last. The address was eloquent, feeling and in perfect harmony with the spirit of the day and occasion. While paying all due honor to the memory of the dead its keynote was hope for the future and it applied the lessons drawn from the past to the needs and duties of the present hour. The address was worthy of the theme and it is to be regretted that it is impossible to reproduce it in full. Mr. Heyward speaking from brief notes only. However, those who heard his eloquent and feeling words have an indelible impression of the high and patriotic sentiments to which he gave utterance that will not fade from recollection.

A CARD.

In returning my thanks to the members of the Sumter Democratic Convention for their kind endorsement of my candidacy for Secretary of State, I wish to assure them that it is not an act of formal politeness, but that it comes from the depths of a sincere and grateful heart, and I humbly trust that no act of mine in the future will cause any member of the convention to regret having given me their endorsement. Respectfully,
J. Harvey Wilson.
